Managing Workers' Compensation, Disability Retirement, and Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) Claims

POST CONTROL #9080-11060

PARTICIPANTS

This seminar is specifically designed for sworn and civilian police personnel wishing to broaden their understanding of the laws that apply to sick or injured workers, including managing claims for Workers' Compensation, Disability Retirement, and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).

CONTENTS

The agenda is divided into three 8-hour modules as follows:

Workers' Compensation Law and Claims Process. A workers' compensation attorney will provide an overview of workers' compensation law, including benefits and eligibility requirements, statutory presumptions and available defenses. Recent cases will showcase the process of resolving claims for job-related illness and/or injury.

Effective Handling of Workers' Compensation Fraud Claims. This segment will be presented by a seasoned sworn investigator and will address identifying and handling workers' compensation fraud throughout the course of a claim.

Navigating Workers' Compensation, Retirement and ADA Laws. An employment attorney will provide an overview of disability retirement laws, Americans with Disability Act (ADA), and other laws that apply to sick or injured workers. Recent cases and strategies to minimize liability for disability discrimination will be discussed. An interactive discussion with class participants will generate management and policy considerations for an effective claim-management program.
